

Table of contents

Introduction

Cognitive individual differences in second language learning and processing 1

Gisela Granena, Daniel O. Jackson and Yucel Yilmaz

Part 1. Theoretical and methodological issues

Foreign language aptitude, acquisitional sequences, and psycholinguistic processes 17

Peter Skehan

Miniature natural language learning in L2 acquisition research 41

Vera Kempe and Patricia J. Brooks

Working memory, language processing, and implications of malleability for second language acquisition 69

Nancy Tsai, Jacky Au and Susanne M. Jaeggi

Methodological implications of working memory tasks for L2 processing research 89

Michael J. Leeser and Gretchen L. Sunderman

Analyzing individual differences in second language research: The benefits of mixed effects models 105

Jared A. Linck

Part 2. Empirical studies

Music, song and speech: A closer look at the interfaces between musicality, singing and individual differences in phonetic language aptitude 131

Markus Christiner and Susanne Reiterer

An empirical study of working memory, personality, and second language construction learning 157

Daniel O. Jackson

Elicited imitation as a measure of implicit L2 knowledge: The role of working memory and short-term memory capacity	185
Gisela Granena
Working memory and L2 English speakers' primed and subsequent production of passives	205
Kim McDonough and YouJin Kim
Interrelationships among L2 linguistic knowledge, working memory functions, and L2 reading	223
Sevdeğer Çeçen and Gülcan Erçetin
Executive control and phonological processing in language acquisition: The role of early bilingual experience in learning an additional language	249
Isabelle Darcy and Joan C. Mora
Corrective feedback and working memory capacity: A replication	279
Jaemyung Goo
The interaction between feedback exposure condition and phonetic coding ability	303
Yucel Yilmaz and Yilmaz Koylu
The role of explicit language aptitude in implicit, explicit, and mixed feedback conditions	327
Yucel Yilmaz, Gisela Granena and Zachary S. Meyer
Index	351